

A helpful guide to choosing memorials &
plaques

Memorials & Plaques

A memorial can serve as a focus for remembering someone you have lost, a place to go to pay tribute or to simply spend some quiet time.

After the funeral you may decide to install a memorial to commemorate your loved one. Traditionally headstones have been placed on a grave after burial to pay tribute to a loved one. In more recent times plaques have been installed following cremation to adorn an ashes plot or be placed somewhere meaningful to a family.

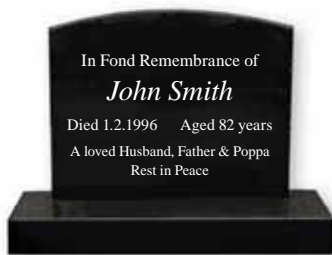

When choosing a memorial, our Funeral Directors can advise you of style and price guidelines. Graphics and wording can be supplied to us and we will arrange to have the memorial inscribed and installed for you. You are welcome to visit our Henderson branch where a variety of memorials are displayed for your convenience.

Granite Memorials

Granite is a durable material and available in a variety of colours, including black, blue, green, red and grey. Families can choose the font style for their inscription and can also add ceramic photos and other designs to the memorial.

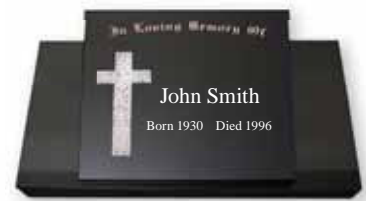

Black granite with a white or gold inscription is a popular choice, but there are other options available for those who may want something a little different. Alternatively you may wish to add a further inscription on an existing headstone.

Bronze Plaques

Bronze plaques are extremely durable and the raised letters makes the plaque easy to read. These plaques require little cleaning however, we are unable to add to the plaque at a later date.

RSA Plaques

RSA Veteran's plaques can be installed in a Service Cemetery or on a family plot. These plaques recognise the service given by Veteran's and can allow for the official unit emblem and spouse details when applicable.

Granite Plaques

Granite plaques are very durable and come in a variety of colours. Granite is a flexible material to work with therefore design elements can be incorporated on a plaque, and further inscriptions can be added at a later date.
